Modus operandi (way of operating) of traffickers

Recruitment Phase:

- Advertisements in newspapers / media /elsewhere containing false job offers that promise good salaries
- Promise of a better life
- Bribes for go- betweens - usually someone that the person recruited trusts – boyfriend, girlfriend, relative- to lure her/him

Transport Phase:

- Can be smuggled or taken legally across borders
- Held in transit houses once across border.
- Passports and documents confiscated by traffickers
- Drugged, raped, gang raped at the transition houses to be broken in for prostitution if going to be used in the sex industry.

Exploitation phase:

- The small time trafficker sells victims to anyone who needs them
- Syndicates move victims around internally & internationally
- Victims can be bought and sold over and over.
- Victims are made to work long hours to make the maximum profit for the trafficker.
- Victims can be disposed of when no longer of use to the trafficker.
